

THE SPIRE Selected By Pi Sigma Phi

William Golding's THE SPIRE has been chosen by Pi Sigma Phi, UTMB honor society, for September and October reading. Copies of this novel in paperback are on sale at the bookstore for 75¢. Recently, THE SATURDAY REVIEW OF LITERATURE called THE SPIRE a "magnificent" novel.

Pi Sigma Phi, through its Committee on Intellectual Advancement on the UTMB campus, plans to offer a $50 award on Honors Day for the best student review of the books selected for campus-wide reading during the 1966-67 school year. An additional monthly award of $2.50 will be offered for the book-of-the-month review which will be published in THE VOLETTE. Entries for the first month's book, THE SPIRE, must be sent to Mr. Charles Callis, president of the Honor Society, by October 31. Reviews should be from 350-500 words in length.

ORGANIZATIONS on campus are urged to support this reading program. Students, secretaries, teachers, and administrative staff are urged to read each selection—some fiction, some non-fiction—so that each may become a conversation piece in the offices, dorms, restaurants and other places where UTMB personnel may gather.

A committee of faculty members representing each curriculum will judge the reviews for each of the six selected books and will choose the best of each; from these, the final winner of the $50 award will be chosen.

Senior Pictures Start Monday

Senior pictures will be made in the Yearbook office of the Old Science Building October 3-4 from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

A $3.00 fee will be collected from each student at the time the pictures are made. Each student will receive a 5x7 portrait and a glossy print, which will be returned after being used in the yearbook.

Women students are requested to wear a black or dark sweater.

James Plunk and Pam Spikes examine THE SPIRE, Pi Sigma Phi's "Book of the Month" selection.

Lowering Nat. Voting Age Congress Again Considers

(ACP) -- For the past 20 years, 18-year-olds in Georgia have been able to vote in local, state, and national elections. Now, Georgia Congressman Charles Weltner has a bill before Congress to lower the voting age to 18 and make it uniform throughout the country.

The University of Denver "Clarion" decided to follow up this lead and find what student sympathies are on the issue. After tabulating 364 written ballots in a poll conducted during student election, it was interesting to note that student sentiment was so equally divided -- 49.6 per cent were for the bill, 50.4 per cent against it.

The "Clarion" said in an editorial:

It seems clear, at least from indications on the University of Denver campus, that if students themselves do not have enough confidence in the ability of 18-to-21 year olds to vote intelligently, this bill is headed for sound defeat.

Homecoming Queen, Officers To Be Nominated By Oct. 4

Class officer nominee's names must be turned in to the Student Government Office by 12 a.m., Tuesday, October 4, for the class officer of president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and student senator.

Organizations should also turn in their Homecoming Queen nominations. Each class, organization, or University dormitory is also entitled to a representative from which the student senate will choose 14 to go before the campus wide elections slated for October 11. The names and signatures of the organization's presidents must also be turned in to the Student Government Office by noon, October 4.

Jimmy Culver, the chairman of the Election Commission, also announced that in order to vote this year students will be required to have their student I.D. cards. No substitutes will be accepted.

Under a clause in last year's revised constitution campus elections must be supervised by the Student Government. This is the second year that all of the class officers have been elected in this manner.

According to the campus drift, rivalry will be strong thus enabling a better election.

Y-A Dorm Elects Year's Officers

The University Y-A Dorm held its election of officers Wednesday night September 22.

Elected to the presidency was Tat Thornhill who will be assisted by vice-president Nancy Dunagan. The dorm's Student Government senator for this year will be Kay Williams. Barbara Bearden will serve as secretary-treasurer. Annual representative and reported is Claudia Jeter. Linda Caldwell and Pat Murphy will act as devotional chairmen.

A set of encyclopedias was donated by the University Library for the dorm's use.

Sextet Rallies Tennessee Spirit

Leading the students in Volunteer Spirit this year are Carrol Schrader, Jane Vaughn, Mary Fields, Naomi Carpenter, Jerry Bussell and Bob Holmes.

Miss Schrader, a senior in physical education from Union City, has been a cheerleader for four years. Miss Vaughn, a third year cheerleader, is a junior in secondary education from Paris. Miss Fields, sophomore in elementary education from South Fulton; Miss Carpenter, sophomore in secondary education from Memphis; Mr. Bussell, senior in education from Parsons and Mr. Holmes, junior in liberal arts from Trenton, are all first year cheerleaders.

They attended the College Cheerleaders Camp at the University of Southern Mississippi at Hattiesburg, Mississippi this summer where over 40 colleges were represented. They won an award daily and were one of the top seven groups attending.

Practice is held at 5 p.m. At these sessions, signs are made, work on pep rallies is done and ideas are created to increase school spirit as well as the usual practice of cheers.

Cheerleaders accompany the team to all games except the Louisiana game. They also sponsor a high school cheerleaders clinic of professional instruction. Over 500 cheerleaders from Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri will attend the clinic on October 10.

Our cheerleaders "appreciate support given at the first game, but need much more to get the Vols on the victory trail." At home games, they request that everyone sit in the student section (F and G.)

Miss Bettye Giles, assistant professor of physical education and cheerleader sponsor, stated, "Cheerleaders do many things over and beyond the call of duty. They volunteer to participate in many activities to increase 'Tennessee Spirit.' We are very lucky to have such a group of hard-working cheerleaders. They have the potential of one of the best groups we have ever had."

This feminine foursome — Jane Vaughn, Carrol Schrader, Naomi Carpenter, and Mary Fields — backed by a pair of masculine baritone — Jerry Bussell and Bob Holmes — will run off a batch of Tennessee verbal "Spirit on our home field Saturday night against Delta State.

Howard Baker, Jr., Republican Conducts Handshaking Tour Here

Republican Howard Baker, Jr. visited the campus for a brief handshaking tour last Friday afternoon.

Baker, who is opposing Governor Frank Clement for a Senate seat in the November election, was here as part of a two-day tour of West Tennessee.

Earlier in the day, speaking in Paris, Baker dispelled rumors that there is a "coolness" between him and Senate minority leader Everett Dirksen, proposed a new image for TVA, and criticized the Johnson farm policy.

Speaking on The Tennessee Valley Authority, Baker suggested consolidating the Cumberland Pines Watershed into the TVA system would cause "economy and unity of purpose and a better co-ordination of development of the Cumberland's resources."

Before several hundred supporters, Baker criticized the Johnson administration for having "abandoned and written off the most majority of farmers" in Tennessee. Baker, quoting assistant Secretary of Agriculture John A. Schnitzer's speech in the Congressional Record, stated that the Johnson administration was only interested in achieving parity income for those farms which gross $10,000 or more a year.

Baker arrived in Paris from Nashville in a chartered plane. He then went to Como for a handshaking tour and to Dresden for a luncheon.

Position Of The Radical

(ACP) — The National Student Committee for the Defense of Viet Nam is another silly organization proclaiming itself savior of the image of American college students, says the Denver Clarion, the University of Denver.

In a recent letter to college newspapers, six committeemen said: "We welcome your cooperation and assistance in this bipartisan national program to show the American people that the new student radicals do not speak for our generation in their irresponsible opposition to our country's policy in Viet Nam."

The attempt to place pejorative connotations on the word "radicals" is obvious.

Why is radicalism a sin? If there were no radicals, people on the fringes of accepted opinion, people who dare to ask the wrong question, dare to make noise and upset the status quo, the country would be saddled with a dictatorship of likemindedness.

The position of the radical is usually ignored by the proponents of consensus because it is always slightly embarrassing to others, similar to our feeling for a friend who has drunk too much at a party and unwittingly insulted someone.

Without noisy, clamorous and widely-publicized dissent, our thinking will become homogenized, tasteless baby food. And then this country will really be in trouble.

Cadet Officers Club Elects Rainey Head

Thomas Rainey, a senior in business administration, was elected president of the Cadet Officers Club at the meeting held last Monday night.

Other officers selected were Van Futrell, a senior in agriculture, vice-president; and Charles Bell, a senior in agriculture, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made for future affiliation with Scabbard and Blade, a national, military, honorary fraternity for advanced ROTC cadets.

Independent Meeting Thursday

The Independent student Association will meet Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the basement of the new gym.

"Any student who is not an affiliate with a fraternity or sorority is eligible to join and is urged to do so," said Ken Boyte, president of ISA.

Colleges Are No Place For Husband Hunting Coeds

(ACP) — There's a widespread belief on college campuses that many women students are in college for one reason — to find a husband.

But according to a study made by Paul C. Glick, author of "American Families," marriage-minded coeds are in the wrong place.

The State Press, Arizona State University, reporting on Glick's study, said his statistics show that although the chances of marriage for the college-educated female are better than they were in 1940, chances are still better for the woman with only a high school education.

THE OLDER a man is when he marries, the study indicates, the greater age difference between bride and groom.

Since the male usually marries a younger female, he has a wide market while in college. Since a woman usually marries up in age, however, her market grows smaller.

As a rule, men marry women of the same or lower level of education. In the woman's case, the situation is reversed. Also, the higher the education level, the greater the importance of men having higher levels of education than women.

THESE findings together lead to this conclusion: extended education and increased age place a woman in a marriage market in which the number of available older males with as much or more education is limited.

Because the man can marry down in age and education, the educated woman faces increased competition by younger and less educated women for the available unmarried men.

The unmarried man with a high level of education is in the best position for mate selection. The woman with the same age and education, however, is very limited in her choice.

THE STUDY also revealed that in three-fourths of all marriages, the bride is younger than the groom.

All these figures seem to indicate that a woman is more likely to receive a Mrs. degree upon graduation from high school than upon graduation from college.

Freshman 'Slump' Ended By No-Grades Policy

Claremont, Calif. --(I.P.) — The sophomore slump is the period of the academic doldrums in most colleges, when dropouts are high, but at Harvey Mudd College "the slump" comes in the freshman year, says Dean Eugene Hotchkiss.

In an effort to combat this, the faculty and administration have announced that no grades will be given in the freshman year, starting this year. Students will be notified of "satisfactory" or "unsatisfactory" work. However, all freshmen work that is not satisfactory must be made up during the sophomore year.

WORKING on the committee which prepared the proposal on evaluation and grading were faculty members, the registrar and a senior student, the chairman of the Student Academic Committee. This new system eliminates the emphasis on grades, encourages the student to study for the sake of learning, and allows the instructor greater freedom to develop course material in the manner most appropriate to the student's needs.

One of the causes of the freshman slump, Dean Hotchkiss said, is that some students find it initially difficult to compete on the college level in a school like Harvey Mudd, where the standards and requirements are high, and where all their senior high school year can be high, and where all freshmen take the same courses. Some students who have taken special courses in their senior high school year can get by with very little work. Others, who may be just as bright, come in without having had advanced courses and are in some trouble.

GRADES have a very negative effect on some students, and as a motivating factor are not always successful. Often, students, all of whom have been accustomed to being tops in their class in high school, are discouraged when they fall into the bottom half at Harvey Mudd, which it is certain 50 percent will do.

The "no-grade system" gives a student a year's grace in which he can find himself before grades are recorded on his transcript. As Dean Hotchkiss puts it, "the student has a year to learn how to study at the college level before his grades are recorded in indelible ink."

Dr. J. Arthur Campbell, professor of chemistry and an early proponent of the gradeless year, points out that Harvey Mudd students come to college really eager to work, but the first thing they find out is that expectations here are different than in high school. They find that the "rules have changed; they can't learn right off and get off to a bad start. Suddenly, the grades have become a penalty, not a reward, and they can't change gears fast enough."

Major advantage of the new system by the chairman of the Student Academic Council: It gives the student a time of adjusting to a common level, and will give freshmen more time so that they won't feel pressed into grubbing all year.

Vols Host Rugged Delta Saturday

Saturday night coach Horace McCool and his Delta Statesmen invade College Field in Martin.

In DSC's Homecoming last year the Vols fell 24-17 in one of the most rugged clashes of the series history. In eight previous meetings the Orangemen have won two and lost six. UTMB's last triumph over the Mississippians was in 1962 by a score of 19-18.

Delta finished the 1965 grid campaign with an 8-1 record and lists 20 returning lettermen from that stellar squad. Following an opening 7-0 loss to Arkansas A & M, the Statesmen cracked into the win column last week bouncing defending Golf Coast Conference Champs Southwestern Louisiana.

Last weekends slugging match left the Orangemen relatively free of injuries. According to head Vol Robert Carroll, "Delta is always big, fast, and rugged. This year is no exception. We'll have to be at full strength." Kick-off is slated for Saturday night at 7:30 P.M.

Lowering.....

It is commonly agreed, the "Clarion" continued, that there is no magic moment at 21 at which time the light descends and one is qualified to drink, vote, marry, pay taxes, and receive a diploma. And yet, there is a hesitancy to champion its own cause by the very group which would be affected by the bill.

Thus, we find a paradox in which many adults recognizing the maturity of those who are old enough to attend college and fight in foreign war, favor lowering the voting age, while the 18-to-21 year-olds, uncertain of their own abilities, are not solidly behind the bill.

The most interesting remark made on any of the "Clarion" ballots brought up an important point: Most 18-year-olds do not have enough information and experience to make an intelligent decision when voting -- but then neither do the 20-year-old, 30-year-olds, or 50-year-olds.

MTSU Raiders Escape With 10-3 Victory

Poised and powerful Middle Tennessee State preserved its perfect 16-game streak by escaping with a 10-3 win over the Volunteers Saturday night. The nation's second ranked small college team scored midway in the opening period and then had to struggle for survival until late in the final quarter.

The Martin Vols didn't seem to understand they were 26-point underdogs and came within a hair of upsetting the vaunted Raiders.

Coach "Bubba" Murphy's squad jumped to a 3-0 lead on a 38-yard field goal for the only tally in the first half.

The Orangemen muffed an opportunity to knot the score later in the first half when Lee May's 26-yard field goal attempt went wide.

Statistically coach Carroll's charges ruled the first half. The Volunteers out rushed and passed the Blue Raiders 142 yards to 136-yards.

In the third stanza Mac Moody returned a MTSU punt 65 yards to the Raider 15. Unable to punch across a six-pointer, UTMB settled for three on May's 28-yard boot.

Until late in the closing quarter both squads slugged it out. Field general Billy Walker finally ignited a sustained

Raider drive with the help of fullback Barry Mathews and tailback Bob Hlodan. Mixing aerials to Hlodan and jarring jaunts by Mathews, the visitors climaxed a 54-yard drive with the big fullback blasting over from the four.

The Vols once more threatened to tally, but ran out of downs on the MTSU 32-yard stripe.

On the ground Hlodan and Mathews accounted for over half of Middle Tennessee's rushing. Together they ground out 167-yards.

Vol fullback Bobby Hayes netted 74-yards on 17 ties and Larry Shanks had 31 yards on nine attempts. End Larry Krouse led UTMB receivers with three snags for 52-yards. Krouse had now hauled down seven tossed for 111-yards.

Saturday's loss leaves UTMB 0-2 for the year.
